

WIRED FOR SOUND

A model displays the world's smallest hearing aid at its Australian launch in Melbourne yesterday. The 'Touch' hearing aid is 50% smaller than the second smallest external hearing aid and includes noise-reduction technology that recognises and turns down background noise. The Touch will be available to the 21% of the Australian population affected by hearing loss and is available in 75 different colour combinations. AFP